SECTION 1: GENERAL ISSUANCE INFORMATION

1.1. APPLICABILITY.

This Manual applies to all DCMA activities unless higher-level regulations, policy, guidance, or agreements take precedence.

1.2. POLICY.

It is DCMA policy that:

a. Records, regardless of media or security classification, will be created, maintained, used, dispositioned, and will preserve the transaction of business operation and execution of mission during periods of war and peace. Chapter XII, Subchapter B of Title 36, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) and Chapters 21, 29, 31, and 33 of Title 44, United States Code (U.S.C.) require federal agencies to properly manage records.

b. Records will be maintained in accordance with (IAW) guidance issued by the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA), the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), M-19-21, "Transition to Electronic Records," OMB Circular A-130, "Managing Information as a Strategic Resource," the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR), and the Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement (DFARS).

c. All DCMA records, paper (analog) or electronic, regardless of security classification, will be dispositioned IAW this Manual. This Manual lists the types of records an organization or enterprise creates and mandates how long they will be retained according to legal, regulatory, and business requirements.

d. This volume aligns with DCMA functions or business processes and should be used in conjunction with DCMA Manual (DCMA-MAN) 4501-04, Volume 1, "Records and Information Management Program." It is the authority for DCMA records retention and disposition. The NARA approves records retention.

e. This Manual covers records unique to DCMA as well as most common records received or created by most Federal agencies. It aligns with the NARA General Records Schedule (GRS) format and contains both NARA GRS disposal authorizations and DCMA-specific authorizations. As changes occur within the NARA GRS, this Manual will be updated or revised accordingly.

(1) The GRS, which is managed by the NARA, specifies the retention period for common records. "Big bucket" schedule aggregates multiple series and/or records in electronic systems that relate to the same subject matter, business functions or work processes. DCMA has applied the "big bucket" concept to many, but not all, command records and includes them in the record schedule.

(2) Big bucket schedule items are typically broader in regard to the number of series/systems and the scope of subject matter, function, or work process covered. An exception example is records related to personnel management. In this regard, DCMA will continue to follow the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) guideline for retaining long-term personnel records kept in the Official Personnel Folder (OPF) or Employee Medical Folder (EMF).

f. This Manual will be executed in a safe, efficient, effective and ethical manner.

1.3. INTERNAL CONTROLS.

Internal controls facilitate better performance by increasing effectiveness and efficiency of operations including use of Agency resources, reducing the risk of asset loss, and help to ensure compliance with laws and regulations. The internal controls for managing the Records Retention Schedule (RRS) will be IAW DCMA-MAN 4301-11, Volume 1, "Management Controls: Manager's Internal Control Program."

a. Agency records are an asset and must be properly managed. The records inventory, file plans, and this Manual control these assets.

(1) Records must be controlled and safeguarded against unauthorized destruction and misappropriation.

(2) Identifying and destroying records and non-records IAW this disposition schedule will reduce costs and needed storage space.

(3) Records maintained at Federal Records Centers or commercial storage facilities are inventoried and accounted for to contain costs and ensure compliance with the disposition schedule.

b. This Manual will be updated and maintained as changes occur in the NARA GRS.

SECTION 2: RESPONSIBILITIES

2.1. CHIEF OF STAFF.

The Chief of Staff:

- a. Manages and oversees the DCMA Records and Information Management Program and ensures the execution of the retention and disposition of records IAW this Manual.
- b. Appoints the Agency Records Officer (ARO) to administer and implement the DCMA Records and Information Management Program and this Manual.

2.2. CORPORATE GOVERNANCE CAPABILITY BOARD MANAGER.

The Corporate Governance Capability Manager approves or disapproves deviation/waiver requests to this Manual (if applicable) IAW DCMA-MAN 4501-01, “DCMA Issuances Program,” Section 17.

2.3. ARO.

The ARO:

- a. Implements the requirements of this Manual.
- b. Updates and revises the content of this Manual as changes occur within the NARA GRS.

2.4. BUSINESS CAPABILITY FRAMEWORK BOARD MANAGERS.

The Business Capability Framework Board Managers:

- a. Ensure records management requirements are identified within all business processes specific to their capability.
- b. Ensure that all records identified integrate the retention and disposition instructions associated with the files series IAW this Manual.
- c. Develop and complete a DCMA Form 4501-04, “Records File Plan,” (link to form provided on the Resource Page of this Manual) from the records inventoried for each mission and business-related process and forward to the ARO for approval.
- d. Ensure that the approved Records File Plan is incorporated into the respective process manual and uploaded to the process manual’s Resource Page.
- e. Ensure that the Records File Plan remains accurate and current. This document must be reviewed annually for completeness and accuracy, when information technology (IT) changes, or when other guidance that may affect identified records or storage locations change.

2.5. COMPONENT HEADS.

Component Heads:

- a. Ensure execution of the retention and disposition instructions of all Agency records IAW requirements of this Manual.
- b. Review and coordinate Manual content during the Agency's formal coordination process.

2.6. EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, IT AND CHIEF INFORMATION OFFICER (CIO).

The Executive Director, IT and CIO ensures all electronic information systems (EIS) that create, maintain or dispose of records have appropriate records retention and disposition instructions IAW this Manual before deployment and implementation.

2.7. GENERAL COUNSEL (GC).

GC:

- a. Provides legal recommendations and advice concerning Agency records retention and disposition instructions to ensure that DCMA complies with statutory and regulatory, and other requirements.
- b. Coordinates during the Agency's vetting process for the disposal of temporary records and accessioning of permanent electronic records.

2.8. EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, OFFICE OF INTERNAL AUDIT AND INSPECTOR GENERAL.

The Executive Director, Office of Internal Audit and Inspector General coordinates with the ARO regarding any recordkeeping deficiencies identified during inspections and investigations.

2.9. COMPONENT RECORDS LIAISON OFFICER (RLO).

The Component RLO:

- a. Ensures all Component records are subject to the retention and disposition instructions of this Manual.
- b. Works with the Records Coordinator (RC) to ensure prompt accessioning of permanent electronic records as well as disposal of temporary records after retention periods expire.
- c. Coordinates changes to this Manual with the ARO and the local program managers.
- d. Coordinates during the Agency's vetting process in the disposition of all DCMA records, to include electronic records.

2.10. CONTRACT MANAGEMENT OFFICE (CMO)/DIRECTORATE/DIVISION RC.

The CMO/Directorate/Division RCs:

- a. Create and maintain cutoff records (see definition of Cutoff in the Glossary of DCMA-MAN 4501-04, Volume 1) IAW a suitable category as defined in Paragraph 3.4.c., of this Manual.
- b. Maintain only records authorized by and IAW this Manual.
- c. Coordinate with the RLO disposition of temporary records when their retention periods expire.
- d. Coordinate accessioning of permanent electronic records when their retention periods expire.
- e. Coordinate with the RLO and the ARO in periodic evaluations of the office's records.

2.11. FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT (FOIA)/PRIVACY ACT (PA) OFFICER.

The FOIA/PA Officer coordinates during the Agency's vetting process in the disposition of all DCMA records, to include electronic records.

2.12. SYSTEM PROGRAM/PROJECT MANAGERS.

System Program/Project Managers:

- a. Ensure the retention and disposition instructions of this Manual are integrated into the workflows of all records generated by an Agency's EIS.
- b. Identify records management as a documented requirement when developing or acquiring an IT system or solution that will create or maintain Agency records.
- c. Develop and implement processes to periodically migrate records within the system for retention or accessioning.
- d. Develop disposition plans for records generated by the system IAW DoD 5015.02-STD.
- e. Ensure records and information contained within a system being decommissioned is migrated or retained so records remain accessible throughout the entire records retention period.
- f. Design, develop, enhance, and implement record-keeping capabilities within the IT system that provide an efficient and coordinated records management strategy.

g. Ensure that the capability supports records creation, storage, security, archival, and disposition as prescribed within this Manual, file plan components, record folder components and records or metadata components.

h. Plan and budget for the migration of records to prevent the loss of record data due to media decay or technology obsolescence.

i. Ensure that any databases storing information and related records comply with the PA and the applicable system of records notice.

j. Ensure essential records maintained within EIS are properly identified IAW DCMA-MAN 3301-02, "Continuity of Operations and Emergency Management." Coordinate with the ARO and the DCMA Continuity of Operations and Emergency Management Program Manager for assistance with essential records inventory, determining appropriate maintenance practices of essential records and for validating and approving essential records inventory.

2.13. IT SYSTEM/SOLUTION OWNERS.

a. Ensure information they create, receive, or manage (e.g., papers, documents produced by office automation software, web content, all input, master files, output and transactions records from any IT system/solution, pictures, electronic mail (email)) are stored and categorized appropriately, consistent with applicable statute, regulation or issuances.

b. Support the inclusion of electronic records management functions into the design, development, enhancement, and implementation of an EIS.

c. Plan and budget for the migration of records and their associated metadata maintained in an EIS or database to new storage media or formats to prevent loss of record data due to media decay or technology obsolescence.

d. Complete annual Records and Information Management Training.

2.14. INFORMATION SECURITY PROGRAM MANAGER.

The Information Security Program Manager provides guidance to DCMA activities on applying the proper classification markings on Agency records IAW DCMA-MAN 3301-08, "Information Security."

2.15. DCMA EMPLOYEES.

Each employee will:

- a. Coordinate with their Directorate/Division RC regarding the retention and disposition of records under their control IAW this Manual.
- b. Ensure non-record material such as personal files, duplicates, or publications used as reference material are maintained separately from work-related records and information and are stored IAW applicable statutes, regulations or issuances.
- c. Maintain emails and attachments that document work-related activities IAW this Manual.
- d. Avoid removing records from the workplace without proper authorization.
- e. Ensure any mission or business-related records they have created and maintained on their government-issued laptop are uploaded to the required records repository before they depart from the Agency or transfer to another Directorate/Division within the Agency.

SECTION 3: RECORDS RETENTION AND DISPOSITION INFORMATION

3.1. OVERVIEW.

a. A RRS is a published agency manual or directive containing the records descriptions and disposition instructions approved by NARA. This Manual is a living document and must be reviewed and updated as needed to reflect DCMA's retention requirements.

b. The RRS need not include every record type. Its purpose is to help guide DCMA's recordkeeping authority in determining the appropriate records retention for each record series based on the activity or function under which it falls. In the event a record received or created by the Agency does not appear within a record series, the ARO must be contacted.

c. The DCMA RRS includes flexible retention. Flexible, which is an arrangement and disposition tool that can be applied to individual and groups of record series or electronic systems to establish consistent retention periods. This allows for records series or electronic systems within work process/functions to have the same stated minimum and/or maximum retention periods. Flexible retention is a flexible scheduling tool that can be used as a component of a "big bucket" (large aggregation schedule) or in a traditional series based schedule and gives agencies the retention flexibility they need to manage their records. To provide retention flexibility, the disposition instructions in a schedule may:

(1) Specify a mandatory minimum retention period for records, but allow for continued retention beyond that time. Example – “Destroy when 3 years old, but longer retention is authorized if records are still needed.”

(2) Specify a time band that provides both minimum and maximum retention periods for records. Example – “Destroy when records are no less than 6 years old, but no more than 10 years old.”

(3) Authorize the disposal of records when no longer needed. Example – “Destroy when records are no longer needed.” This disposition is generally appropriate only in the case of records that are not needed (e.g., protection of legal rights, audits) other than an Agency's day to day business.

3.2. DETERMINING THE APPROPRIATE RECORDS RETENTION PERIOD.

To determine a records retention period, CMO/Directorate/Division RCs need to review their processes and determine whether the record it maintains are for convenience or for recordkeeping purposes. Once determined, apply the retention period associated with the record series identified in this Manual. In this regard, records owners also need to understand when their records are sent to a higher office or other office for recordkeeping or for inclusion in a cumulative report.

3.3. DISPOSITION AUTHORITY. The Archivist of the United States, NARA, is the only person authorized to approve disposition of Federal records. Requesting disposition authority of records from NARA is called scheduling; once submitted and approved by the Archivist, the required disposition authority is assigned. NARA also releases disposition of common Federal records in the GRS, which is for use by all Federal agencies. DCMA uses a hybrid schedule and includes records retention periods approved specifically for DCMA and GRS retentions. Various disposition authorities are used within the DCMA RRS.

Table 3-1. Disposition Authority Breakdown

Sample Disposition Authority	Breakdown
DAA-0558-20XX-000X	Disposition Authority Approval (DAA) - Records Schedule created in the NARA Electronic Records Archives. 4-digit numerical records group – 0558 is DCMA. 4-digit Fiscal Year (FY). 4-digit place holder for sequential numbers assigned within a FY.
NI-0558-XX-XX	NARA office symbol and general appraisal (N1). Assigned when Standard Form (SF) 115, “Requests for Records Disposition Authority,” (link to form located on Resource Page of this Manual) is submitted. 4-digit numerical Records group – 0558 is DCMA. 2-digit FY when SF-115 was registered. Sequential SF-115 number assigned within a FY.
GRS, Item 1	GRS approved by NARA for all Federal Agencies Use. 1 = Sequential SF-115 Number assigned to NARA GRS.

3.4. PROCESS FOR MAINTAINING A CURRENT AND ACCURATE RECORDS SCHEDULE.

The RLO and/or RC will contact the ARO when records content is considered out-of-date, inaccurate, and/or a retention period needs to be changed based on internal or external influences. To explain further:

a. Creating/Retiring Records Series.

(1) A record series must be covered by an RRS to facilitate discovery and consistency in records retention. The ARO will work with process owners to determine under which Bucket Schedule(s) the records fall and, when necessary, assist to create or retire a records series code.

(2) The ARO will update the RRS. The Big Bucket Schedule does not have to be updated unless it does not include the necessary records. The ARO will consult with the NARA as needed to determine whether a formal change to DCMA’s RRS is required and will submit a SF 115.

b. Request to Change Retention Periods.

(1) As a result of legal, business, customer or financial requirements DCMA may need to maintain records longer than what is stipulated in DCMA's retention schedule. Requests to retain records beyond their retention period must be referred to the ARO.

(2) If the retention period needs to be changed, the ARO will work with the process owners to better understand the purpose and impact of the change to process. The DCMA ARO will communicate changes by issuing Agency-wide instructions advising stakeholders to update any relevant processes, file plans, or electronic systems.

c. Changes in Electronic Systems Purpose, Capabilities, Ownership. DCMA's RRS applies to records regardless of the media type (electronic or paper). In instances where an electronic recordkeeping system is shared with another Agency, such as the Defense Finance Accounting Service, DCMA's records retention period may be revised to ensure that records are kept for the longest period required (and agreed upon) by the sharing agencies.

d. Records Retention Exceptions. DCMA's "Big Bucket" Schedule includes Agency mission (e.g., contract) and common records. There are records retention exceptions within a given schedule based on Federal legislation, business or legal needs. Exceptions are identified in the RRS. If an exception is not found or needs to be addressed, the ARO should be contacted.

3.5. RECORDS CUTOFF CATEGORIES.

a. The amount of time a record is kept is called its retention period. A disposition rule is when a file begins its retention period, what that retention period is based and the final disposition action for a record at the end of its retention period. Disposition has a cutoff and a final disposition phase. Cutoff (an event or date trigger) determines when a record enters its retention period. Final disposition is when a record's retention period is over and it should be destroyed.

b. When converting from a traditional retention schedule to a "Big Bucket" Retention Schedule, cutoff does not apply to the records series types listed in Paragraph 3.4.c. Within the body of DCMA's RRS several cutoff categories may be listed under a given record type. The records owners (or those with records management responsibilities) will determine which cutoff is appropriate based on their understanding of how information is organized within the project, activity or mission.

c. An explanation of the cutoff categories referred to in this Manual are:

(1) Category A. Category A consists of publications, issuances, and similar documents. Cutoff is when a record is superseded or obsolete.

(2) Category B. Category B consists of records for activities that are organized, grouped, and maintained by task, job, assignment, agreement, or situation that has clearly defined start and end dates. Cutoff is when a project or event ends after final payment or final action, after settlement of disputes or incidents, or when a court order is lifted or litigation is concluded.

(3) Category C. Category C consists of certain Human Resources records. Cutoff is when an employee transfers, separates or retires from Federal service or an employee’s or dependent spouse’s eligibility is terminated or denied.

(4) Category D. Category D consists of certain accounting records in GRS 3, 6, 7, and 8. Cutoff is the end of the account coverage or claims collection period or upon receipt of a settlement certificate

(5) Category E. Category E consists of records for which the retention trigger is not a significant event, such as the new issuance release, task completion, personnel separation, or dispute settlement. Cutoff is annually. Applies every year on the first day of January.

(6) Category F. Category F consists of fiscal year records. Cutoff is the first day of the fiscal year. Applies every year on the first day of October.

3.6. GENERAL RECORDS SCHEDULE UPDATES.

a. In FY 2013, the NARA GRS Team began a 5-year project to update and revise the GRS. With GRS Transmittal 31, that project has successfully concluded. The old GRS is now completely superseded. As a result, disposition instructions were updated and RRS whose authority derived from rescinded GRS were withdrawn. Furthermore, all RRS contain the current disposition authority, as well as the pre-2018 and GRS Transmittal 31 disposition authorities. Table 3-2 lists record series affected.

b. As revisions to the GRS occur, the affected file series located in this Manual will be appropriately updated.

SECTION 4: COMMON OFFICE AND ADMINISTRATION MANAGEMENT RECORDS

4.1. OVERVIEW.

This series of records are records that all organizations use, such as command administration records, supervisor's personnel files, standard operating procedures, and correspondence files.

SECTION 14: CONTRACT ADMINISTRATION SERVICE

14.1. OVERVIEW.

a. This series of records relates to Contract Administration Service records that involve DCMA’s mission to provide contract administration services to the DoD and its partners to ensure the delivery of quality products and services to the war fighter, on time and on cost. Records document the comprehensive contract administration service process; including but not limited to: evaluation and negotiation, cost/price and financial analysis, production surveillance, property management; transportation and packaging, competition advocacy. For control of records the contracting process is represented as:

- (1) Contract Administration Services – Contract Development/Pre-Award Assistance.
- (2) Contract Administration Services – Contract Files.
- (3) Contract Administration Services – General Operations.

b. Items that are related to both Contract Administration Services and other core mission activities are covered in Series 400.00.

c. Contract records are defined IAW FAR 204.804(5), FAR 4.8 and DFARS 204.802.
